TERMS AND CONDITIONS

These termsand conditions govern theservicesorganized by Ando Libre LLC, operating under the Uyuni Adventure brand, hereinafter referred to as the "DMC".

BOOKING CONFIRMATION

The booking is considered confirmed only upon receipt of the deposit indicated in the payment terms. No option, rate or availability can be held without the corresponding payment within the communicated deadlines. Payment of the deposit constitutes acceptance of the program, the economic conditions and these terms and conditions.

RATES, CURRENCY AND INCLUDED SERVICES

All rates are expressed in US dollars unless otherwise indicated. The quotation includes only the services, accommodation, meals, transfers, visits and activities expressly indicated in the program. Any service not expressly indicated must be considered excluded.

The quotation has been calculated on the basis of a group of 9 participants plus 1 tour leader. Any variation in the number of participants will entail a recalculation of the rate and of the distribution of costs among the remaining participants.

The DMC reserves the right to adjust the rate up to 30 days before departure exclusively in the event of official and documentable fluctuations in government taxes, entrance fees or fuel costs. Any variation will be communicated in writing, stating the corresponding reason.

CANCELLATION POLICY

Cancellation requests must be sent to the DMC in writing. The date of receipt of the communication determines the applicable penalty.

• Cancellation 91 or more days before departure: no cost and full refund of the amount paid.
• Cancellation from 90 to 45 days before departure: penalty of 50% of the amount paid.
• Cancellation less than 45 days before departure: 100% penalty, as the services will already have been paid in full to the suppliers.
• Any penalties applied by hotels or local suppliers will be entirely borne by the client.

Failure to show up at departure, voluntary withdrawal during the trip or inability to participate for personal reasons are considered no-shows and do not entitle the client to any refund.

DOMESTIC FLIGHTS — CONDITIONS AND REFUNDS

The fares of the domestic flight included in the program (La Paz – Uyuni, Boliviana de Aviación OB 306) follow the fare conditions of the airline and are excluded from the cancellation policy above.

In the event of cancellation, the amounts relating to domestic flights are refundable exclusively in the form of credit, in accordance with the conditions and timeframes established by the airline, and not in cash. The credit remains usable within the terms set by the carrier. Any name changes, date changes or reissues will follow the airline's fare rules and any costs will be borne by the client.

REDUCTION IN THE NUMBER OF PARTICIPANTS

Reductions in the number of participants must be requested in writing and are subject to the cancellation windows above, applied to the share of the program corresponding to the cancelled seats. Each reduction will entail a recalculation of the individual rate based on the new number of participants, the vehicles required, the rooms confirmed and the services already booked.

A reduction in the number of participants does not automatically entail a proportional reduction of the total value, since some services are calculated per vehicle, room, guide, group or transfer. After the deadline of 45 days before departure, any withdrawals will be subject to the 100% penalty.

DURATION OF SERVICES, REQUESTED CHANGES AND ADDITIONAL SERVICES

The times and duration of visits, transfers and excursions are indicative and may vary for operational, climatic, road, logistical or safety reasons, without this constituting a breach of contract.

Should a service be extended due to group requests, delays attributable to the participants or changes not foreseen in the program, supplements may be applied for: additional driving or transport hours; extra meals or overnight stays; changes to the room distribution; route changes; additional transport; activities or visits not included; services requested directly during the trip. Costs will be communicated, where possible, before the service is provided and may be paid directly on site or invoiced to the client afterwards.

OPERATIONAL COORDINATION AND LIMITS OF AUTHORITY OF THE TOUR LEADER

The final transfer times, meeting points and operational arrangements with drivers, guides, hotels, carriers and other suppliers must be confirmed exclusively by the DMC or by the operational contacts designated by it.

The tour leader is not authorized to: request, approve or confirm changes of schedule or itinerary; cancel or modify transfers, visits or other services; modify or cancel hotel reservations; change the room distribution without approval; agree directly on supplements, refunds or complimentary services; assume economic or contractual commitments on behalf of the DMC. The tour leader must consult the DMC and request any changes; the DMC will contact the local operator or the accommodation facility.

Agreements made directly by the tour leader or by the participants without the DMC's written authorization will not be binding on Ando Libre LLC. Cancellations or scheduling errors attributable to the tour leader that compromise the regular performance of the services may generate additional costs, which will be charged to the client.

PROGRAM CHANGES AND FORCE MAJEURE DURING THE TRIP

The program may undergo changes, substitutions, delays, deviations or interruptions in the presence of circumstances beyond the DMC's control, including: adverse weather conditions; rain, snow, frost or flooding; road closures or precarious road conditions; strikes, protests or blockades; border or immigration issues; security conditions; operational breakdowns or sudden unavailability of vehicles; transport delays or cancellations; decisions of the authorities; health emergencies; natural events; other unforeseeable events or force majeure.

In such circumstances, the DMC will propose, when operationally possible, a reasonably equivalent alternative solution. Changes of schedule, route, order of visits, accommodation or means of transport caused by force majeure do not constitute a breach of contract and do not automatically entitle the client to refunds, reductions or compensation.

In the event of road blockades, adverse weather or other force majeure events during the trip, the DMC will provide the necessary assistance in the field. Any substitute or extra services made necessary by such circumstances will be applied according to the DMC's rates and will be borne by the participants. Upon request, the DMC can provide the corresponding reference rate sheet.

TRIP CANCELLATION DUE TO FORCE MAJEURE BEFORE DEPARTURE

Should the entire program be unable to start due to force majeure events beyond the DMC's control, the DMC will propose, based on the availability confirmed by the suppliers, one or more of the following alternatives, offered because the suppliers guarantee the actual provision of the planned services: rescheduling of the trip; substitution with an equivalent program; issuance of a travel credit equal to the amounts paid, net of non-recoverable costs already incurred or committed to the suppliers.

The travel credit will be valid for 12 months from the date originally scheduled for departure, unless different conditions are imposed by the suppliers.

Should the client not accept the proposed alternatives, even though the corresponding services are guaranteed by the suppliers, a management fee of 2% of the total value of the program will be applied, in addition to any non-recoverable costs. The remainder will remain available in the form of travel credit.

As an alternative to the credit, at the client's request, the DMC will refund in cash the amounts actually recovered from the suppliers, net of non-recoverable costs and the 2% management fee. Amounts already paid and non-recoverable from the suppliers are not subject to cash refund. In any case, the amounts relating to domestic flights are excluded from cash refunds and are refundable exclusively in the form of credit, in accordance with the airlines' conditions.

HEALTH, ALTITUDE, FITNESS AND CONDUCT

A significant part of the program takes place at altitudes above 3,600 meters, with sections above 4,000 meters. By confirming the booking, each participant declares to be in physical and health conditions compatible with the trip and the planned activities. Participants with pre-existing medical conditions (cardiovascular, respiratory, blood pressure or other conditions potentially incompatible with high altitude) must consult their doctor before departure. Any relevant medical condition, allergy, dietary requirement or need for assistance must be communicated in writing to the DMC sufficiently in advance. Failure to communicate relevant conditions releases the DMC from the consequences deriving from the impossibility of arranging adequate organizational measures.

The tour leader and the accompanying persons appointed by the client are responsible for the supervision and conduct of the participants, in particular of any minors, for the entire duration of the trip.

The DMC and the local operators may exclude from a given activity or from the continuation of the tour, without any right to a refund, any participant whose condition or conduct endangers their own safety, that of the group or of the staff, prevents the regular performance of the program, violates safety instructions or causes damage to people, vehicles, facilities or equipment. Any damage caused by the participants will be charged to the client.

INSURANCE AND LIABILITY

All participants must have valid health and travel insurance for the entire period of stay in Bolivia, with adequate coverage for: high-altitude activities and excursions; medical assistance, hospitalization and evacuation; medical transport and repatriation; trip cancellation or interruption; loss of or damage to luggage. Taking out the policy and verifying its adequacy are the exclusive responsibility of the client and the participants.

Ando Libre LLC coordinates the program through independent hotels, guides, carriers and local operators. To the extent permitted by applicable law, the DMC's liability will be limited to the value actually paid for the service directly concerned. The DMC will not be liable for damages, losses, delays or expenses deriving from events not directly attributable to its own conduct, including illness or altitude effects, accidents caused by third parties, loss or theft of personal belongings, flight delays or cancellations, weather events, road conditions, strikes or blockades, decisions of the authorities, migration or border issues and events beyond its control. Any limitation of liability not permitted by applicable law is excluded.

TRAVEL DOCUMENTS AND ENTRY REQUIREMENTS

Each participant is responsible for verifying and holding all the documents required for the trip and for entry into Bolivia, including: passport with at least six months' residual validity; any visa required according to nationality; onward or return ticket, where required; migration documentation; authorizations for minor participants; health or vaccination certificates as may be required according to nationality, origin, transits and itinerary.

Health and migration requirements may be changed by the authorities even at short notice. The client must therefore verify them again before departure with the competent consular and health authorities. The DMC will not be liable for consequences deriving from incomplete, expired, invalid or non-compliant documentation. Refusal of entry into the country or inability to participate due to lack of the required documents will be considered a no-show and will not entitle the client to any refund.

COMMUNICATIONS AND ACCEPTANCE

All communications relating to cancellations, changes, operational requests or variations of the services must be sent to the DMC in writing. Payment of the deposit confirms full acceptance of the program, the quotation, the payment terms, the cancellation policies and these terms and conditions.
